Preface to the 1734 Debt Book for Somerset County, Maryland

The rent rolls and debt books were the books in which the Lord Proprietor of Maryland kept track of the rents due him. Each piece of land granted to an individual was subject to an annual rent according to the terms in the patent. If the original owner died and his son inherited the land, the son paid the rent. If a patentee sold the land, the new owner was required to pay the rent. The debt book was a list of persons owning land with the tract names and rents due on each tract owned listed in one section under the owner's name. The rent roll consisted of entries of each tract of land patented with the names of the person for whom the tract was originally surveyed, the present owner or owners and the acreage and rent due. Debt books were a refinement of rent rolls. An office of Rent Roll Keeper was created by the appointment of James Carroll about August 1707 who received about 10,000 pounds of tobacco a year in salary for his duties. The Rent Roll Keeper received notice of all patents, sales and devises of land, and recorded the information in his rent roll and to issue every year a debt book to the farmer or receiver of each county. Most counties in Maryland were farmed out on three year contracts and each farmer was responsible for the entire amount of quit-rents, less his discount of about 25% of the estimated total and was bound to compile a county roll for the Rent Roll Keeper. Rents are shown in British denomination, i.e., pounds, shillings and pence.

The within 1734 Debt Book was transcribed by T. Aaron Horner for use in connection with the Nabb Research Center's digital history project, American Origins. For the convenience of all of our researchers, the Nabb Research Center is making this work available in a printed format.
